

Grow The Army (GTA) Stationing

Information Brief
19 December 2007

Strategic Context

- Our Army is undergoing the largest organizational change since World War II as we transform to a Brigade-centric, modular force, AND Grow by 74.2K
 - Restations ~1/3 of the Army by end of FY 2011
 - Impacts 380K Soldiers and Families members
 - Affects 304 installations/locations
- Our Army is executing a tightly-woven, operationally-synchronized plan integrating BRAC, Global Defense Posture Realignment, and Grow the Army; facilitated by Military Construction
 - Total Army Military Construction FY06-13: $66.4B
 - Constructing 743 projects from FY06-13
 - Constructing 20 Brigade Complexes; 69,000 Barracks spaces; 4,100 Family Housing Units; 66 Child Development Centers
 - 13 Full BRAC Closures; 8 Leased facility closures
 - 53 Realignments (3 Major School realignments)
 - 125 New Armed Forces Reserve Centers
- Today's action impacts quality of tomorrow's force

Stationing Decision Making Process

- Applied BRAC 2005 value model and weighting scheme
- Identified installations for analysis
- Collected data
- Calculated values for installation alternatives
- Assessed environmental impact and completed PEIS
- Identified recommendation for Army Stationing

Army Capabilities Optimized

- Growth Capacity: Maximize ability to support future requirements
- Power Projection: Maximize the ability of the BCT to deploy for contingency operations and major exercises
- Training: Maximize the opportunities and access to Training Land, Ranges, Battle Command Centers, and Training Support Centers to provide ready units to meet Army Campaign Plan missions
- Well Being: Maximize Quality of Life available to the Soldier and Family

MAXIMIZE VALUE TO ARMY
WHILE MINIMIZING COST
